SPORTS AT THE PARK

Association Athletes Strive
Hard For Victory.

LIVERPOOL WON SOME EVENTS

The Crowd Was Not Large But It Appreciated Some Of the Close Contests.
Foot Races That Were Dead Heats Won
In Half A Foot.

A highly pleased crowd saw the sports at the East End track yesterday afternoon, and the Young Men's Christian association officials were repeatedly complimented for their energy and enterprise in providing such an excellent program. The weather was perfect and the track
good, but the crowd was not as large as had been hoped, due probably to the fact that there have been so many holidays during the past few weeks,
and those who have employment are anxious to make every hour count.
However, the crowd greatly enjoyed
the afternoon, and were enthusiastic
at some of the excellent records made by the contestants. Although some of the best athletes in the valley were present, and worked hard for victory,
Liverpool upheld its end of the long string, and did its duty like the plucky little man it is. The mere fact that the sports were postponed
caused a dampening effect upon the ardor of some who came here last Thursday, and they remained at home
this time. Among them were several wheelmen with records, but the bicycle races were good without them and the crowd had abundant sport.

The first event was the 100-yard dash, and a pretty race it was. At the word, Rogers, of Martin's Ferry, and Gaston and Steel, of this city, got away, and the first and last of the trio finished in a dead heat, running side by side with good speed. The officers of the track did not have the heart to make them try it again after
the effort they had put forth, and they rested while another event was on.
Then they ran again, Gaston staying out, and Rogers crossed the tape about six inches in advance of Steel, making the distance in 10 3/5 seconds. Steel was set back a yard for starting too soon or the race would have been his.

Putting the 16-pound shot was the next trial, and a whole field of brawny young fellows lined up for the event. Ingalls, the Washington and Jefferson athlete, who has a good reputation, won by putting the heavy ball
34-8, followed by McClain, of Liverpool, with 32-2, and Wallace, of this city, with 27-1.

The half-mile bicycle race was for members of the Young Men's Christian association, and attracted some of the best talent in the organization.
They got away in good order, and finished with Laughlin first, Gaston next and Hall third. The time was 1:31.

Throwing the 10-pound hammer
brought out some of the heavyweights
of the association, and every man did his best for success. McClain won by throwing the thing 84-4, and Wallace
got it 77-13 from him before it struck the ground. Herbert came within a few inches of reaching Wallace's score,
and the throwing was as good as any
ever seen on the ground.

Neil Kitchell and A. T. Steel were the winners in the half-mile running race, and the way they tore around
the track would do good to the heart of the average athlete. They kept a good speed from the start and made
the distance in 2:37.

An exhibition half-mile by Trappe
on his wheel was another event that attracted notice. He was paced by Irons and Hale on a tandem, and never did prettier work than when he spurred coming down the home stretch. The timer said he made the distance in exactly 1:01 1/5, not what he has done, but yet the best time for
that distance ever made in this vicinity.

Herbert won the pole vault by doing
8-3; Hall came next with 8 feet and Wallace fell short by making it 6 feet.

The 220-yard dash was another good
race, Steel winning it in 23 seconds,
and Rogers chasing him for a close second.

The half-mile bicycle for boys under 17 years of age and members of the association showed that the youth of Liverpool can ride, as Heber Davidson
won out in 1:24 2/5, while Brady Larkins made the distance in a few seconds more. The youngsters got a good pace, and maintained it very well from the start.

The running high jump was won by Ingalls, with 54 feet to his credit, Gaston being second with 6 inches less,
and McClain being unable to do more than 4 feet 7 inches.

Laughlin won the two-mile bicycle race for members of the association in

6:45, Gaston coming after him with a most creditable spurt at the end of the contest.

Steel won the 440-yard dash, Rogers
chased him closely over the tape, Herbert was only a short distance behind him, and Ingalls made a very decent-looking fourth. The time was 56 1/2 seconds.

The running broad jump was among the most exciting contests of the afternoon, McClain clearing 18 feet 2 1/2 inches with a mighty effort. Wallace and Herbert each made 18 feet 1 1/2 inches, and McClain retired with the first prize, while the other contestants jumped again. Wallace had a good start, and as his body shot
through the air his friends knew he had made a great jump, and he had,
for he cleared 18 feet 4 1/2 inches, and as Herbert could do no better he was awarded the second prize, and that ended the sports, with the exception of the quarter mile walk, in which Thomas Humphries was a conspicuous figure, and won the event. May the association have many more such events.

WINTER MEETS.

More Sports For Association Boys. When Winter Comes.

Arrangements will be made soon
for some athletic events at the Young Men's Christian association that will dwarf into insignificance anything
that the association has yet attempted. It is proposed to conduct three pentathlons indoors during the winter, in which all the athletes will be asked to take part. Prizes will be given the winners, and all members
laying claim to athletic supremacy
will have an opportunity to show what they can do.

THE RACE.

The Defender Injured at the Start This Morning.

Special to NEWS REVIEW.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—The yacht race is the all absorbing topic in New York today, and thousands saw the Valkyrie cross the line at 11:01 this morning. The Defender was only the shade of a second behind, and the boats started on the sail on the starboard tack with the Defender leading a few minutes after the start. At noon they passed Highland Navesink,
but there had been a change so great
that the conditions were reversed.
The wind that promised to be fresh
early in the morning had died away to six mile breeze, the sea was as smooth
as old ocean usually gets, and the Valkyrie was leading by three-eighths
of a mile with all the chances for winning on her side. At length the cause of the trouble became known.
While maneuvering for position prior to the start the Valkyrie got close to the Defender, and broke the topmast,
backstay causing the topmast to sag sidewise. The Defender hoisted the protest flag which was acknowledged by the judge. When the boats came to the first stake the Valkyrie
turned it at 12:57-3 and the Defender
at 1:00-5.

At 2:50 o'clock things were looking decidedly blue for the American boat,
the wind was low, and the Britisher
was away in the lead. At exactly 2:55-22 the Valkyrie crossed the line,
and at 2:57-40 the Defender came over
giving the Englishman the race.

WILL HAVE A MEETING.

That Proposed Republican Club Will Likely be Formed.

One of the men most interested in the formation of a Republican club in town stated last evening that a meeting to take the preliminary steps toward organization would in all probability be called for some evening next week. An effort is being made to catch the spirit of the town before any definite action is taken, and if it develops that a club is wanted and needed it will undoubtedly be formed.
To the present time the leaders are encouraged, and the project will in all probability be carried out.

Lost the Beer.

An incident that was as pathetic as it was amusing was noticed late last night on Smoky. A child had been sent out for a bucket of beer, and was on its way home with the fluid when it was stopped near Washington street
by a rough looking man who demanded the bucket. As the child was frightened by the fellow's profanity it tremblingly handed over the beer, and the man drank it with gusto. Then he handed back the bucket and walked away while the little one realizing the reception at home began crying as if her heart would break.

SUSIE HAD A BIG TIME

On Her Little Shanty Boat at the Foot of Union

BUT THE POLICE DROPPED IN

And Susie Rode in the Patrol to City Hall.
A Tough Joint at Last Raided—Money
Rolling into the Coffers of the Mayor—A Little Incident in the Diamond.

Susie Barr was at one time a familiar figure to the police of this city and Wellsville, and in later months she has been behaving so well that many moons have rolled around since her name was on the docket, but it was there this morning.

For some time Susie had lived on a shanty boat tied to the shore near the foot of Union street. Here she walked in the straight and narrow way for a time, but some of her old friends
chanced to learn of her whereabouts,
and the fun commenced. People in the neighborhood have been shocked
at the noises coming from that boat,
but the police have never been able to catch Susie napping. She knew a thing or two, and exercised her ability
so that all was serene when the officers appeared. Last night, however, there was amusement
on the boat. Three men were there in a drunken condition, shouting and howling to their heart's content, and having more fun than is popularly supposed to come from a barrel of monkeys. The woman was, apparently, the happiest of the lot, and it was her beautiful voice that attracted the attention of Officer Jennings. He knew he could not handle
the crowd himself, and turning
in an alarm for the patrol, watched the boat. The men, however,
succeeded in getting away, with their identity, but Susie was too near the stage of helplessness, and in consequence breathed the pure, fresh air
that came through the bars at city
hall for the remainder of the night.

Susie was arraigned before the mayor this morning, and defended
her case with characteristic ingenuity.
She said that the boat was conducted by Nettie Baker, but not for immoral purposes. The crowd usually came down there in the evening, and she did not deny that they drank a great deal, but she was firm in the assertion that they never entered the boat. Last night, she said, she had been drinking,
and going down to the boat lay on a bed, and James Stewart came in.
From that point until the police arrived her story is unfit for publication,
she claims Stewart had as much to do with the row as any one. He on the other hand denies that he did anything worse and only went to the boat
to collect 60 cents that Nettie owed him on an insurance account. The mayor heard Susie's story with patience, and then fined her $10 and costs, the woman to stand committed to the workhouse until both are paid.
Stewart will be heard tonight.

An expounder of the doctrine of Coxey, Simpson and numerous advocates of Populism held forth in the Diamond last night, and there was a crowd to hear him. The words of his mouth got mixed in some way with the whisky in the being of Hamlet Bourne, and he made an exhibition of himself. He could not understand that the other fellow was making the speech, and caused such a commotion
that Officer Whan locked his long arm
with that of the intoxicated one, and
together they walked to city hall.
Bourne was very much ashamed of himself, as usual, this morning, but
paid the $7.75 so cheerfully demanded
by the mayor and went to work.

William Allen and Thomas May,
who had been invited to call on the mayor last evening because of the sensation they had caused on Sixth street by striking each other, were there at the appointed time, and handed the mayor $7.00 each for the performance.

The father of William Blakely was another visitor at city hall, and he came for the sole purpose of having his son released. When he learned that the proceeding would cost just $30,
he paid the bill and took his boy
home. McKinnon was not released
this morning, but his friends were arranging for the payment of the fine,
which caused the mayor to remark
that McGovern's assessment was not in sight, and if it was delayed he would have to go to Canton.

WHY THEY KICK.

Cigar Dealers Want the Loafing Ordinance
Enforced.

A canvass was made among the restaurant and drug store people who handle cigars and are affected by the new Sunday law.

With few exceptions they are opposed to it, and for many reasons, but there is one more prominent than the rest and that is the question of the corner loafer. The statement of one prominent merchant is that of many.

He said:

"As soon as the Sunday loafers are cleared away then we will feel that the closing law is not an injustice.
What we need is a bigger police force.
The corner loafer is always with us.
He congregates in crowds of a dozen or more on Sundays and sitting about
the corners spits in a disgusting manner on the streets. When a lady and gentleman come by alone or together
they are insulted and the lady in addition to suffering an insult at the hands of these loafers has her clothes ruined by tobacco spit. I have heard of fellows deliberately spitting tobacco juice on lady's dresses when she held up her skirts in an attempt to keep them out of the nicotine flood which covered the pavement. This is not the fault of our present force, as they are too few to be in many different parts of town when they are needed. Since the Sunday closing idea I believe the practice has grown and I would like to see it stopped. If the police force is increased and do their duty in removing loafers then
the restaurateurs will have no kick
coming. We believe in seeing all laws enforced and being open on Sunday is the only prevention for a filthy doorstep and pavement on Monday morning."

SPARRING FOR POINTS.

But Some of the Performers Became Very Earnest.

There was a large crowd at Bradshaw hall last night to see the athletic tournament, and they were well repaid for their trouble if they were interested in boxing. A party of Turners opened the entertainment
with a splendid exhibition of high jumping, and Billy McGee and Johnny Keenan, of Trenton, boxed three rounds for points. They handled their fists with skill only born of long experience, and greatly pleased the audience. James Joyce sang a song that brought forth loud applause from the audience, and Jack Hassey brought down the house with a well executed clog. H. Salisbury also made a hit by singing, but Caton and Salisbury set the house wild with their bout. After a few preliminary passes one man
struck out hard, and the next minute
sledge hammer blows were falling thick and fast. Murray, the referee,
was compelled to caution them against slugging. The Turners gave a pretty exhibition on the horse, and Murray, of Trenton, and Potts, of Wellsville, showed their skill with the gloves. Murray and Dunkerly also had a wrestling bout that was loudly cheered.

ONE MORE.

Another Divorce Application Added to the Long List.

Special to the NEWS REVIEW.

LISON, Sept. 10.—Mrs. L. L.
Hartshorn, of East Palestine, today
asked a divorce from T. W. Hartshorn, her husband. They lived in Cleveland until four months ago,
when she became ill and her mother
and brother were compelled to take her to Palestine because he neglected
her. He has property, and Judge Billingsley issued an order restraining
him from encumbering it.

W. G. Floding, of Leetonia, sued
the administrator of the estate of the late Sarah Gouchner for $1,849.98,
claimed as due for nursing.

A. W. Scott asked judgment for $100 from J. M. Blue, of Wellsville, because he drew the plans for Blue's house,
and claims the bill was never paid.

Mrs. Mary Martin, of Salem, was adjudged insane in probate court last night, and a boy from Madison township, who has been at the Fairmount
home, was sentenced to the Lancaster
school as an incorrigible.

AGAINST WOMEN.

The M. P. Conference in Pittsburg Takes Action.

One of the chief questions before the Methodist Protestant conference
now in session in Pittsburg was the eligibility of women to hold the office
of representative or elder, and the battle was ended yesterday by the opponents of women winning by a good vote. The resolution was so worded
that the affirmative voted for the exclusion of women from elderships and general conferences, and it is claimed that many misunderstood that part of the motion. Reverend Whitehead, of this city, is secretary of the conference, but it could not be learned today
how he voted.

Music by Telephone.

Mr. McClain, a traveler from Pittsburg, who is as full of ability to sell soap as he is of music, was a caller at the office of Doctor McVoy last evening, and having an harmonica with him gave so many pleasing selections
that the doctor used his telephone to distribute the music through the city.
It sounded very well.

SIX EGGS IN ONE EGG

An Avondale Street Hen in a New Role.

TWO LAYINGS MAKE A DOZEN

Something New In Hen Fruit—The Producer of Half a Dozen Eggs Within One Shell Is Just an Ordinary Chicken Without Special Claim to Distinction.

Out on the hills in Wucherer addition there lives what is probably the most remarkable hen in the world-o-fowl, whose ability to lay eggs is not only greater than that of the ordinary chicken, but so much greater that only the word of a strict Christian
man would be taken to corroborate
the following tale.

The individuality of the hen is unknown. It wanders to and fro in the garden, eackles about the chicken
coop after it has laid an egg, and lives
on the fat of Avondale street much as other hens do, but its identity is unknown. Its owner can not today pick it from among a dozen other chicks about the place, but that it does exist cannot be denied, for the egg which stamps it as a remarkable
hen was found by one person and seen
by several.

A few days ago the little daughter of Mills Bennett, modeler at the Union pottery, found an egg. As the family own a number of chickens
nothing was thought of the find until
a short time afterward when there was occasion to break the egg.
Imagine the surprise when it was seen
that the shell not only contained one egg with bright yolk and white as do
other eggs, but a perfectly formed egg
with a hard shell. This was carefully lifted out, and appearing like an ordinary egg, was broken. Then there was another surprise for concealed in the egg was another. As there was no other course than to keep up the investigation this shell, much thinner
than the others, was also cracked, and lo there was another shell. By this time the attention of the entire family had been attracted, and the last shell was given a light blow in order that its contents be revealed.
As was expected there was another egg on the inside as perfect in formation as its predecessors. The spectators could hardly believe their eyes,
but that shell was also broken, and on the inside reposed a tiny egg no
larger than the nail of a man's thumb.
That made six eggs at one laying, and
while all of them were not perfect it can be safely said that it is the record
for the state.

NOT THIS WEEK

But One Week From Sunday Will the
First Presbyterian Church Be Opened.

Work on the improvements at the First Presbyterian church is progressing finely, and the carpenters will have their end of it completed before Saturday evening. The other work, however, will not be done in time to open the church on Sunday of next week and that event will not take place until the next week. The wiring and placing of the lighting fittings
will not be done before next week.
Doctor Huston, of the First Methodist Episcopal church, has invited Doctor
Lee to occupy his pulpit on that day
as the latter gentleman will be in the city and the former will be at conference.

THREW A CABBAGE.

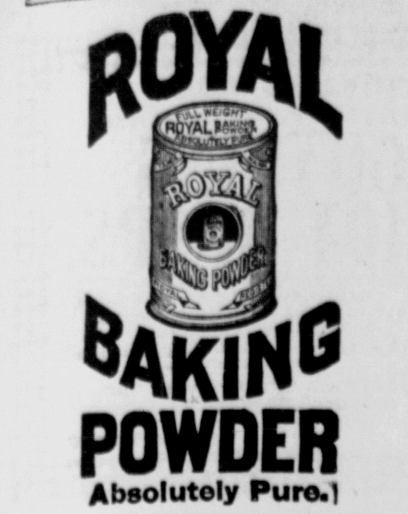

Small Boys Annoy the Fourth Street
Brush Maker.

August Geithlen, the Fourth street
brush maker, has been annoyed by small boys so much that he reported to the police today, and asked protection. He claims the boys throw stones at his shop, and at times these drop into a pot of tar on his table
which splashes into his face. One lad threw a rotten cabbage in his door
this morning and another broke down the gate. He claims that he has a temper, and he may get so mad that he will hurt them, and he does not want to do that. Two of the lads may be arrested, but it is sure all of them
will if they continue the annoyance.

HIT ON THE HEAD.

Will Buxton Cut by a Large Ewer at the Dresden.

In the warehouse of the Dresden
pottery this morning Will Buxton was catching ewers thrown from a rack
above his head when he became overheated, and paused a moment to wipe the perspiration from his hands. The man above did not notice the action,
and threw down one of the large jugs.
It struck Buxton on the top of his head, and he went down as though he had been shot. A physician was summoned, and found a deep gash about two inches long in the scalp. The wound was dressed and the injured
man taken home.

MR. BRICE OF NEW YORK.

How He Wastes His Money on Extravagant Living.

THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS ARE WASTED.

Buzzing Newport, New York and Washington with vulgar display and barbaric luxury—Ohio Does Not Figure in the Social Life of the Junior Senator.

A Life Spent in Social Dissipation.

New York, Sept. 9.—The wasteful and prodigal expenditure of an Ohio senator who lives in Newport in the summer, in New York in the fall, in Washington in the winter, and in the Buckeye state not at all, is exciting sharp comment on every side.

There are thousands of people who enjoy elegance and the liberal spending of money, but there is a difference between liberality and sheer wastefulness, and this difference the Brices do not understand.

In Washington they hire a social secretary at $5,000 a year, whose sole duty it is to arrange for dinners, receptions and other social entertainments. He selects the menu, makes out the list of guests, orders the food, wine and flowers.

During the winter season the Brices' bill for game and fish at a single dealer in Washington was more than $1,000 a month, and in their frenzied effort to outshine all others in the way of elaborate entertaining, they think nothing of paying famous opera singers and musicians $2,000 a night for performing for the diversion of their guests.

What strikes me as wonderful, said a gentleman recently, who is frequently a guest at the Brice villa at Newport, "is how a man in public life can be a senator from one state when he spends his time and money in high living in places far distant from it."

The Brices have been working for years to get into the exclusive set. It was in the winter of 1883 that Mr. Brice, having attained a large fortune in his railroad maneuvers, decided to go to New York and reap the social benefits of it.

To this end he bought the fine old mansion at No. 693 Fifth avenue, which has always remained his New York residence. Six years the Brices lived at their new home and quietly added to their list of friends all who might be of any advantage to them in their coming social life, feeling their way, as it were, toward the inner ranks of the exclusive set.

Small dinner parties and the dainty teas of Mrs. Brice were the only social affairs which marked these, the first years of their eastern life. Their summers were spent abroad.

Six years ago Mr. Brice saw that to gain his end he must have Newport. As Newport would not come to him he went to Newport, and since 1889 his family have been, with the exception of last season, constant summer residents there.

During the years 1889-1892 Senator Brice occupied the palatial Bennett villa opposite the Casino and in 1893 the Fearing estate. Their life during this period was a quiet, rather prosaic existence, always aiming to a future state.

Capturing Washington. While the senator permitted his family to steal quietly into the New York elite set, as it were, his entree into the Washington diplomatic circles was far different. Secure in his position of United States senator, with one entertainment, even before he had secured a residence, he made doubly secure his position as a Washington society leader and was the most talked of man in town.

Sending out cards to the entire social select of Washington early in the season of 1890 for a "small entertainment," Mr. and Mrs. Brice gave in the parlors of the Arlington hotel the grandest and most costly musicale that Washington had ever attended. The program included Emma Eames, Scalchi and Edward Lloyd, the famous English tenor, who was at the time under contract with the Cincinnati Musical association, and it is said that a large sum was paid for the permission to sing away from Cincinnati.

All society was captivated with the entertainment, and the Brices' position as social leaders was secure. Later in the season Mr. Brice was fortunate in leasing the Corcoran estate and mansion, which, facing on Lafayette square, is said to be the most valuable estate in Washington. This residence is almost as exclusive as Lady Alva's marble palace at Newport. The grounds on Sixteenth street are surrounded by a 12-foot solid brick and stone wall, and the main entrance to the house is reached by a carriage way under a covered arched passage, and is entirely hid from the street.

few affairs of the present administration that was honored with the presence of the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The Leiters, Fullers, and in fact the whole political circle of Washington was in attendance.

Last winter Senator and Mrs. Brice determined to eclipse all previous efforts, and sent out 400 invitations to a musicale. The horsecars on F street passing the house were stopped for nearly an hour by the hundreds of carriages that lined Lafayette square. Madame Melba and both of the De Reszkes had been engaged at a cost of thousands of dollars, in the height of the grand opera season in New York and sang for two hours at this, the greatest of the Brices' social achievements.

His $15,000 Villa.

In their Newport life, until this season, they entertained but little. Three years ago they had Mrs. John M. Mackay as guest, and gave several lavish entertainments in her honor. Last spring Senator Brice tried to buy the Bennett estate, but refused to pay $120,000 for the property, which, in this age of exclusiveness, is too near the shops of Bellevue avenue. He finally took the J. J. Astor villa, Beaulieu, which had been rented heretofore for several seasons to Alden B. Stockwell, president of the Pacific Steamboat company, at $5,000 per season.

Mr. Brice pays $15,000 for four months' occupancy, probably the largest amount ever paid for a summer villa by any one in the world. This has been the first year that Mrs. Brice has really entered Newport's society. For several years her daughters have been in Paris at the convent of Sacre Coeur, and are now a great aid to their mother in receiving at her larger affairs. Mrs. Brice has been the most lavish of the season's entertainers. Dinners and luncheon parties at Beaulieu have been popular, especially with the younger members of the swagser set. When Secretary Herbert was here Mrs. Brice gave a large dinner party in his honor. Those present included the diplomatic circles and members of the embassies.

To crown their entree to the "180," Mrs. Brice gave a lawn fete two weeks ago which was so novel in its makeup that it took the whole cottage colony by storm. On the vast lawn of Beaulieu a regular midway plaisance reigned, with fortune tellers, mind readers, sleight-of-hand performers and a dog and monkey show, all brought down from New York.

Sensor Brice's social aspirations, like his political aspirations, have no limit. He would see the day when the name of Brice would mean as much to New York swells as the name of Astor or Belmont or Vanderbilt.—New York Press.

THE WOOL INDUSTRY.

Protective Duties Benefit Woolgrowers.

Free Wool Is Ruin.

The wool tariff act of March 2, 1867, gave adequate protection to our chief wool product under conditions then existing. Under it the prices of wool were fairly remunerative. Sheep increased from 28,477,651 in 1870, producing 100,102,387 pounds of wool, to 50,656,626 in 1884, producing 308,000,000 pounds. In four years, from January, 1880, to January, 1884, sheep increased in number 24 per cent. Then unfortunately came the tariff act of March 3, 1883, reducing wool duties. Under it sheep declined in number 50,626,626 in 1884, with a wool clip of 308,000,000 pounds, to only 43,431,136 in 1891, producing 285,000,000 pounds. In view of the injury resulting from the reduction, the tariff act of Oct. 1, 1890, known as the McKinley law, increased the duties on wool, and American flocks grew in numbers to 47,273,553 in 1893, producing 348,538,183 pounds of wool. Then again in the midst of prosperity came disaster. With the result of the election of 1892 came the certainty of free wool, subsequently enacted in the Wilson-Gorman tariff act of Aug. 28, 1894. The result is shown in the reduction of sheep, in wool product, and in values, as follows:

Year.	Sheep in Wool P'd.	Value of U. S. Sheep.	Value of U. S. Sheep.
January, 1880.	47,273,553	348,538,183	$125,900,294
January, 1886.	42,291,004	284,000,000	90,824,021
Decline.	4,979,489	64,538,183	$50,064,648

This is the fruit of free wool. The details show that its ruin has marked every portion of the country. Pennsylvania, between Jan. 1, 1893, and Jan. 1, 1895, lost 458,421 sheep, or 28 per cent of her flocks; Ohio lost 801,363 sheep, or 18 per cent of her flocks; West Virginia lost 205,899, or 24 per cent of her flocks; New England lost 256,000; the middle states, 879,000; Michigan, 556,598, or 22 per cent of her flocks. To this should be added the loss between Jan. 1, 1895, and shearing time, and since. Free wool has wrought a destruction on flocks never yet equalled in this country by war, pestilence or famine, by blasting simoon or withering mildew, by drouth, sandstorms, frost, blizzards, coyotes and wolves.

If This Be Treason, Etc.

All men of common sense are disgusted with the fool twaddle of mugwumps and cuckoos that Grover Cleveland is the greatest, wisest, purest statesman that ever did or ever can exist—the one infallible and immaculate mortal of the world. One doesn't have to dislike Mr. Cleveland to know that these particular admirers of his are merely the belly crawlers and sycophants of power whom Cleveland himself in his inmost heart must utterly despise. There were great men before Agamemnon at Ithaca are men in this republic today just as capable as Grover Cleveland. It is not necessary to make him president for life, with power to name his successor, in order to save the country. All that is needed is to send out the foolkiller armed with a willow wand to mash the soft heads of a few mugwump editors.—Memphis Commercial (Dem.)

MR. CLAY'S SHORTAGE.

Ironton's County Treasurer Can't Understand It.

$14,000 TO $18,000 MISSING.

His Accounts Were All Right a Year Ago and He Declares There Couldn't Be Such a Huge Discrepancy—His Resignation Refused.

IRONTON, O., Sept. 10.—County Treasurer Clay, who, it is alleged, is from $16,000 to $18,000 short in his accounts, cannot explain the apparent shortage. When the treasury was examined last year it was reported all right, and the treasurer says that if it was all right then it must be now, as his balances and receipts will show. The county treasurer is also city and school treasurer, and last year when examination was made the August school abstract had been received by him, but was not charged to him by the examiners. The present committee says that this should have been done. On the accounting for this hinges much of the shortage.

When the shortage was made known Treasurer Clay summoned his bondsmen to his home, and after a consultation with them made an assignment of all his property for their benefit. Grant Ward was made assignee at the request of the bondsmen.

When the commissioners met Treasurer Clay appeared before them, and, while saying that he had put up all the funds in his possession and had kept back and hidden nothing, tendered his resignation, which, however, was not accepted. The treasurer asserts that there is an error in the figuring of the examining committee, who, however, have yet made no formal report, and demands that two expert accountants be appointed to go over the books.

The B. & O. Likely to Buy.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 10.—The Valley road will be sold here today at public auction under an order issued by United States Judge Ricks. It is generally understood among the officials of the United States court and railroad men that there will be but one bidder for the B. & O. railway company. The addition of the Valley property to its lines will give the B. & O. what it has desired for years, a through line to Cleveland. It is almost certain that B. & O. will absorb the property without contest for the minimum price fixed by the court.

Ordered More New Boats.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 10.—The Cleveland Steel Canal Boat company has decided to order at once four more fleets, each composed of one steamer and five barges, to apply between this port and New York, by the way of Lake Erie, Lake Erie, canal and Hudson river. The barges will cost about $3,000 each and the steamers $7,000. Manager C. E. Wheeler reported the complete success of the first trip of the first fleet and recommended a few changes, which will be made.

The Order of Chosen Friends.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 10.—The tenth triennial convention of the supreme council of the Order of Chosen Friends is in session here. Mayor McKissin delivered an address of welcome, to which Supreme Counsellor Morris responded. The treasurer's report showed a steady increase in the financial resources of the organization, while there had been a marked decrease in the expense in handling the funds.

Robber Crowe Surrendered.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 10.—Patrick Crowe has been surrendered by the authorities upon a requisition from the Governor of Missouri. He was identified as the prisoner who escaped from the jail at St. Joseph, Mo., where he had been placed for train robbery.

The National Polish Alliance.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 10.—The National Polish Alliance has appointed temporary officers as follows: President, W. Czechowicz, of Allentown, Pa.; marshal, M. Balicki, of South Bend, Ind.; secretary A. N. Sadowski, of Buffalo. There are 335 delegates present.

Eloped With a Preacher.

PORTSMOUTH, O., Sept. 10.—John Swords, a prominent citizen and farmer of Carey's Run, has notified the police that his wife Eldora has eloped with Rev. David L. Webb, an itinerant preacher, who for several months has made his home at the Swords residence.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

There are streets in the city that would be visibly improved by a visit from the sweeper.

Harry Brookes is working at Smith's Ferry at present while the operator at that place takes his vacation.

The Catholic picnic at the East End today is largely attended, and hundreds of people are spending a delightful time.

A family row in Huston addition made misery for one woman last night and afforded amusement for a crowd of neighbors.

Several East Liverpool people bought tickets for the Louisville encampment last evening. Motorman Stodgill, Mrs. Trueman McClean and Orlando Ralston left on the 7 o'clock train.

The opening of the second week of the public schools finds matters in much better order than at any time during last year, and the teachers generally seem preparing for an exceptionally good year.

Thomas Pittenger, one of the best known motormen of the electric line, is confined to his home in East End by a dangerous attack of lung trouble. He has been ill for some time, but was thought to be well on the road to recovery when he was again seized with a serious attack.

Rev. H. E. Hall, the young minister who has so many friends in East End, is visiting in that part of the city at present, and on Wednesday goes to Canton to conference. From there he will go to Boston to continue his studies. He has been teaching in Muskingum county during the summer.

People who claim to know a thing or two about local politics point to the spring election next year as a hot one in which a host of candidates will hustle at the Republican primaries for office. The place of Chief Gill, the mayoralty and the city solicitorship are positions that will be the big bones of contention.

It was rumored here last night that a local company made up of operative potters and backed by Steubenville capital would lease or buy the Toronto white ware pottery, and put it in operation without delay. As the story could not be traced to any reliable source, it is given for what it is worth. The plant is a good one, but has been idle for several years.

Mr. Conkey, physical director of the Young Men's Christian association, went to Cleveland and Oberlin on business this morning. At Oberlin he will instruct a new director who will have charge of the athletic department of the association there. During the absence of Mr. Conkey the physical department will be in charge of Secretary Morris, but little will be done.

There are entirely too many young girls on the streets of the city at night and scenes are at times enacted that would bring a blush to the face of the soldier in the Diamond. Last night two girls, probably under the influence of liquor, hung about the neck of a young man on Broadway in a disgusting manner. A hickory stick applied three times a day for a time might be a good cure for such dangerous actions.

Among the visitors in the city today was W. H. Surles, a prominent insurance man of Milwaukee. The gentleman is a Knight Templar and is on his way home from Boston, where he attended the conclave. Mr. Surles, although a prosperous business man now, served his time in a newspaper office, having learned the trade in Steubenville. He was the guest of his brother, Mr. Surles, of Robinson street, while here.

It is announced at Toronto that the Phoenix telephone company will begin work there as soon as the material arrives, and connections will be made in surrounding towns and through the country at once. It is supposed that Liverpool is included in this arrangement for the story has been published that the Phoenix would come to this city, but it is learned that the men sent here met with little encouragement, and an exchange would not be a paying institution.

One of the tramps who have been in this vicinity for several days appeared at a house in the West End last evening, and with a face as earnest as though he meant what he said, asked for a night's lodging. His clothes were dirty and ragged, and he was a specimen that no woman would have in her house if she could avoid it. When he was refused lodging he turned away with a sad expression, and remarked with all the injured innocence he could muster, "Madam, this is a cold, cold world," and walked away.

They Are Here.

Not all of them, of course, but enough to make you wonder if it will be possible for us to sell one-half of them. We know what we can do, and long before manufacturers had been notified that they would have to pay an advance on cloth, we had completed our arrangements for our fall delivery, and they are coming in—box after box of the newest ideas for Fall and Winter wear in Ladies', Misses' and Children's Cloaks.

Our Cloak Business

Has grown until we feel that we would be lacking in good business judgment if in any way we should neglect to arrange for the largest cloak business our house has ever enjoyed. Times are bracing up and in every way we feel more confident than we did one year ago.

The Prices.

We have always said that we can save you money on Cloaks, but this year we make the assertion at the start off that by a peculiar arrangement of circumstances, we are in a position to sell you garments on a positive guarantee of a saving of money to you. This is no bluster, but a cold, hard fact that we will prove to you if you go to the trouble to investigate.

Assortment Of Styles

You can buy Cloaks of almost all dealers in Dry Goods, and the majority of them are sure that they have just what you want, but if you stop a moment to consider that only about one house in each city gives the cloak business enough of time or space that it should have to guarantee its success, you will not wonder that we claim to lead the cloak business in styles and prices. Our entire second floor is used for this line. Lady sales people who are adepts in this line are in charge. We handle more Cloaks than any other store in the county. Our factories are the best known and have the reputation of turning out the finest styles in the country, and selling in large quantities we are able to make closer prices. Come and see our line.

SPORTS AT THE PARK

Association Athletes Strive
Hard For Victory.

LIVERPOOL WON SOME EVENTS

The Crowd Was Not Large But It Appreciated Some Of The Close Contests. Foot Races That Were Dead Heats Won In Half A Foot.

A highly pleased crowd saw the sports at the East End track yesterday afternoon, and the Young Men's Christian association officials were repeatedly complimented for their energy and enterprise in providing such an excellent program. The weather was perfect and the track good, but the crowd was not as large as had been hoped, due probably to the fact that there have been so many holidays during the past few weeks, and those who have employment are anxious to make every hour count. However, the crowd greatly enjoyed the afternoon, and were enthusiastic at some of the excellent records made by the contestants. Although some of the best athletes in the valley were present, and worked hard for victory, Liverpool upheld its end of the long string, and did its duty like the plucky little man it is. The mere fact that the sports were postponed caused a dampening effect upon the ardor of some who came here last Thursday, and they remained at home this time. Among them were several wheelmen with records, but the bicycle races were good without them and the crowd had abundant sport.

The first event was the 100-yard dash, and a pretty race it was. At the word, Rogers, of Martin's Ferry, and Gaston and Steel, of this city, got away, and the first and last of the trio finished in a dead heat, running side by side with good speed. The officers of the track did not have the heart to make them try it again after the effort they had put forth, and they rested while another event was on. Then they ran again, Gaston staying out, and Rogers crossed the tape about six inches in advance of Steel, making the distance in 10.35 seconds. Steel was set back a yard for starting too soon or the race would have been his.

Putting the 16-pound shot was the next trial, and a whole field of brawny young fellows lined up for the event. Inglis, the Washington and Jefferson athlete, who has a good reputation, won by putting the heavy ball 34-8, followed by McClain, of Liverpool, with 32-2, and Wallace, of this city, with 27-1.

The half-mile bicycle race was for members of the Young Men's Christian association, and attracted some of the best talent in the organization. They got away in good order, and finished with Laughlin first, Gaston next and Hall third. The time was 1:31.

Throwing the 10-pound hammer brought out some of the heavyweights of the association, and every man did his best for success. McClain won by throwing the thing 84-4, and Wallace got it 77-14 from him before it struck the ground. Herbert came within a few inches of reaching Wallace's score, and the throwing was as good as any ever seen on the ground.

Neil Kitchell and A. T. Steel were the winners in the half-mile running race, and the way they tore around the track would do good to the heart of the average athlete. They kept a good speed from the start and made the distance in 2:37.

An exhibition half-mile by Trappe on his wheel was another event that attracted notice. He was paced by Irons and Hale on a tandem, and never did prettier work than when he spurred coming down the home stretch. The timer said he made the distance in exactly 1:01 1-5, not what he has done, but yet the best time for that distance ever made in this vicinity.

Herbert won the pole vault by doing 8-3; Hall came next with 8 feet and Wallace fell short by making it 6 feet.

The 220-yard dash was another good race, Steel winning it in 23 seconds, and Rogers chasing him for a close second.

The half-mile bicycle for boys under 17 years of age and members of the association showed that the youth of Liverpool can ride, as Heber Davidson won out in 1:24 2-5, while Brady Larkins made the distance in a few seconds more. The youngsters got a good pace, and maintained it very well from the start.

The running high jump was won by Inglis, with 54 feet to his credit, Gaston being second with 6 inches less, and McClain being unable to do more than 4 feet 7 inches.

Laughlin won the two-mile bicycle race for members of the association in 6:05, Gaston coming after him with a most creditable spurt at the end of the contest.

Steel won the 440-yard dash, Rogers chased him closely over the tape, Herbert was only a short distance behind him, and Inglis made a very decent-looking fourth. The time was 56 seconds.

The running broad jump was among the most exciting contests of the afternoon, McClain clearing 18 feet 2 1/2 inches with a mighty effort. Wallace and Herbert each made 18 feet 1 1/2 inches, and McClain retired with the first prize, while the other contestants jumped again. Wallace had a good start, and as his body shot through the air his friends knew he had made a great jump, and he had, for he cleared 18 feet 4 1/2 inches, and as Herbert could do no better he was awarded the second prize, and that ended the sports, with the exception of the quarter mile walk, in which Thomas Humphries was a conspicuous figure, and won the event. May the association have many more such events.

WINTER MEETS.

More Sports For Association Boys. When Winter Comes.

Arrangements will be made soon for some athletic events at the Young Men's Christian association that will dwarf into insignificance anything that the association has yet attempted. It is proposed to conduct three pentathlons indoors during the winter, in which all the athletes will be asked to take part. Prizes will be given the winners, and all members laying claim to athletic supremacy will have an opportunity to show what they can do.

THE RACE.

The Defender Injured at the Start This Morning.

Special to NEWS REVIEW.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—The yacht race is the all absorbing topic in New York today, and thousands saw the Valkyrie cross the line at 11:01 this morning. The Defender was only the shade of a second behind, and the boats started on the sail on the starboard tack with the Defender leading a few minutes after the start. At noon they passed Highland Navestink, but there had been a change so great that the conditions were reversed. The wind that promised to be fresh early in the morning had died away to six mile breeze, the sea was as smooth as old ocean usually gets, and the Valkyrie was leading by three-eighths of a mile with all the chances for winning on her side. At length the cause of the trouble became known. While maneuvering for position prior to the start the Valkyrie got close to the Defender, and broke the topmast backstay causing the topmast to sag sidewise. The Defender hoisted the protest flag which was acknowledged by the judge. When the boats came to the first stake the Valkyrie turned it at 12:57-3 and the Defender at 1:00-5.

At 2:50 o'clock things were looking decidedly blue for the American boat, the wind was low, and the Britisher was away in the lead. At exactly 2:55-22 the Valkyrie crossed the line, and at 2:57-40 the Defender came over giving the Englishman the race.

WILL HAVE A MEETING.

That Proposed Republican Club Will Likely Be Formed.

One of the men most interested in the formation of a Republican club in town stated last evening that a meeting to take the preliminary steps toward organization would in all probability be called for some evening next week. An effort is being made to catch the spirit of the town before any definite action is taken, and if it develops that a club is wanted and needed it will undoubtedly be formed. To the present time the leaders are encouraged, and the project will in all probability be carried out.

Lost the Beer.

An incident that was as pathetic as it was amusing was noticed late last night on Smoky. A child had been sent out for a bucket of beer, and was on its way home with the fluid when it was stopped near Washington street by a rough looking man who demanded the bucket. As the child was frightened by the fellow's profanity it tremblingly handed over the beer, and the man drank it with gusto. Then he handed back the bucket and walked away while the little one realizing the reception at home began crying as if her heart would break.

SUSIE HAD A BIG TIME

On Her Little Shanty Boat at the Foot of Union

BUT THE POLICE DROPPED IN

And Susie Rode in the Patrol to City Hall. A Tough Joint at Last Raided—Money Rolling Into the Coffers of the Mayor—A Little Incident in the Diamond.

Susie Barr was at one time a familiar figure to the police of this city and Wellsville, and in later months she has been behaving so well that many moons have rolled around since her name was on the docket, but it was there this morning.

For some time Susie had lived on a shanty boat tied to the shore near the foot of Union street. Here she walked in the straight and narrow way for a time, but some of her old friends chanced to learn of her whereabouts, and the fun commenced. People in the neighborhood have been shocked at the noises coming from that boat, but the police have never been able to catch Susie napping. She knew a thing or two, and exercised her ability so that all was serene when the officers appeared. Last night, however, there was amusement on the boat. Three men were there in a drunken condition, shouting and howling to their heart's content, and having more fun than is popularly supposed to come from a barrel of monkeys. The woman was, apparently, the happiest of the lot, and it was her beautiful voice that attracted the attention of Officer Jennings. He knew he could not handle the crowd himself, and turning in an alarm for the patrol, watched the boat. The men, however, succeeded in getting away, with their identity, but Susie was too near the stage of helplessness, and in consequence breathed the pure, fresh air that came through the bars at city hall for the remainder of the night.

Susie was arraigned before the mayor this morning, and defended her case with characteristic ingenuity. She said that the boat was conducted by Nettie Baker, but not for immoral purposes. The crowd usually came down there in the evening, and she did not deny that they drank a great deal, but she was firm in the assertion that they never entered the boat. Last night, she said, she had been drinking, and going down to the boat lay on a bed, and James Stewart came in. From that point until the police arrived her story is unfit for publication, she claims Stewart had as much to do with the row as any one. Heon the other hand denies that he did anything worse and only went to the boat to collect 60 cents that Nettie owed him on an insurance account. The mayor heard Susie's story with patience, and then fined her $10 and costs, the woman to stand committed to the workhouse until both are paid. Stewart will be heard tonight.

An expounder of the doctrine of Coxe, Simpson and numerous advocates of Populism held forth in the Diamond last night, and there was a crowd to hear him. The words of his mouth got mixed in some way with the whisky in the being of Hamlet Bourne, and he made an exhibition of himself. He could not understand that the other fellow was making the speech, and caused such a commotion that Officer Whan locked his long arm with that of the intoxicated one, and together they walked to city hall. Bourne was very much ashamed of himself, as usual, this morning, but paid the $7.75 so cheerfully demanded by the mayor and went to work.

William Allen and Thomas May, who had been invited to call on the mayor last evening because of the sensation they had caused on Sixth street by striking each other, were there at the appointed time, and banded the mayor $7.60 each for the performance.

The father of William Blakely was another visitor at city hall, and he came for the sole purpose of having his son released. When he learned that the proceeding would cost just $30, he paid the bill and took his boy home. McKinnon was not released this morning, but his friends were arranging for the payment of the fine, which caused the mayor to remark that McGovern's assessment was not in sight, and if it was delayed he would have to go to Canton.

WHY THEY KICK.

Cigar Dealers Want the Licensing Ordinance Enforced.

A canvass was made among the restaurant and drug store people who handle cigars and are affected by the new Sunday law.

With few exceptions they are opposed to it, and for many reasons, but there is one more prominent than the rest and that is the question of the corner loafer. The statement of one prominent merchant is that of many. He said:

"As soon as the Sunday loafers are cleared away then we will feel that the closing law is not an injustice. What we need is a bigger police force. The corner loafer is always with us. He congregates in crowds of a dozen or more on Sundays and sitting about the corners spits in a disgusting manner on the streets. When a lady and gentleman come by alone or together they are insulted and the lady in addition to suffering an insult at the hands of these loafers has her clothes ruined by tobacco spit. I have heard of fellows deliberately spitting tobacco juice on lady's dresses when she held up her skirts in an attempt to keep them out of the nicotine flood which covered the pavement. This is not the fault of our present force, as they are too few to be in many different parts of town when they are needed. Since the Sunday closing idea I believe the practice has grown and I would like to see it stopped. If the police force is increased and do their duty in removing loafers then the restaurateurs will have no kick coming. We believe in seeing all laws enforced and being open on Sunday is the only prevention for a filthy doorstep and pavement on Monday morning."

SPARRING FOR POINTS.

But Some of the Performers Became Very Earnest.

There was a large crowd at Bradshaw hall last night to see the athletic tournament, and they were well repaid for their trouble if they were interested in boxing. A party of Turners opened the entertainment with a splendid exhibition of high jumping, and Billy McGee and Johnny Keenan, of Trenton, boxed three rounds for points. They handled their fists with skill only born of long experience, and greatly pleased the audience. James Joyce sang a song that brought forth loud applause from the audience, and Jack Hassey brought down the house with a well executed clog. H. Salisbury also made a hit by singing, but Caton and Salisbury set the house wild with their bout. After a few preliminary passes one man struck out hard, and the next minute sledge hammer blows were falling thick and fast. Murray, the referee, was compelled to caution them against slugging. The Turners gave a pretty exhibition on the horse, and Murray, of Trenton, and Potts, of Wellsville, showed their skill with the gloves. Murray and Dunkerly also had a wrestling bout that was loudly cheered.

ONE MORE.

Another Divorce Application Added to the Long List.

Special to the NEWS REVIEW.

LISBON, Sept. 10.—Mrs. L. L. Hartshorn, of East Palestine, today asked a divorce from T. W. Hartshorn, her husband. They lived in Cleveland until four months ago, when she became ill and her mother and brother were compelled to take her to Palestine because he neglected her. He has property, and Judge Billingsley issued an order restraining him from encumbering it.

W. G. Floding, of Leetonia, sued the administrator of the estate of the late Sarah Gouchner for $1,849.98, claimed as due for nursing.

A. W. Scott asked judgment for $100 from J. M. Blue, of Wellsville, because he drew the plans for Blue's house, and claims the bill was never paid.

Mrs. Mary Martin, of Salem, was adjudged insane in probate court last night, and a boy from Madison township, who has been at the Fairmount home, was sentenced to the Lancaster school as an incorrigible.

AGAINST WOMEN.

The M. P. Conference in Pittsburgh Takes Action.

One of the chief questions before the Methodist Protestant conference now in session in Pittsburgh was the eligibility of women to hold the office of representative or elder, and the battle was ended yesterday by the opponents of women winning by a good vote. The resolution was so worded that the affirmative voted for the exclusion of women from elderships and general conferences, and it is claimed that many misunderstood that part of the motion. Reverend Whitehead, of this city, is secretary of the conference, but it could not be learned today how he voted.

Music by Telephone.

Mr. McClain, a traveler from Pittsburgh, who is as full of ability to sell soap as he is of music, was a caller at the office of Doctor McVoy last evening, and having an harmonica with him gave so many pleasing selections that the doctor used his telephone to distribute the music through the city. It sounded very well.

SIX EGGS IN ONE EGG

An Avondale Street Hen in a New Role.

TWO LAYINGS MAKE A DOZEN

Something New In Hen Fruit—The Producer of Half a Dozen Eggs Within One Shell Is Just an Ordinary Chicken Without Special Claim to Distinction.

Out on the hills in Wucherer addition there lives what is probably the most remarkable hen in the world-of-fowl, whose ability to lay eggs is not only greater than that of the ordinary chicken, but so much greater that only the word of a strict Christian man would be taken to corroborate the following tale.

The individuality of the hen is unknown. It wanders to and fro in the garden, eackles about the chicken coop after it has laid an egg, and lives on the fat of Avondale street much as other hens do, but its identity is unknown. Its owner can not today pick it from among a dozen other chicks about the place, but that it does exist cannot be denied, for the egg which stamps it as a remarkable hen was found by one person and seen by several.

A few days ago the little daughter of Mills Bennett, modeler at the Union pottery, found an egg. As the family own a number of chickens nothing was thought of the find until a short time afterward when there was occasion to break the egg. Imagine the surprise when it was seen that the shell not only contained one egg with bright yolk and white as do other eggs, but a perfectly formed egg with a hard shell. This was carefully lifted out, and appearing like an ordinary egg, was broken. Then there was another surprise for concealed in the egg was another. As there was no other course than to keep up the investigation this shell, much thinner than the others, was also cracked, and lo there was another shell. By this time the attention of the entire family had been attracted, and the last shell was given a light blow in order that its contents be revealed. As was expected there was another egg on the inside as perfect in formation as its predecessors. The spectators could hardly believe their eyes, but that shell was also broken, and on the inside reposed a tiny egg no larger than the nail of a man's thumb. That made six eggs at one laying, and while all of them were not perfect it can be safely said that it is the record for the state.

NOT THIS WEEK

But One Week From Sunday Will the First Presbyterian Church Be Opened.

Work on the improvements at the First Presbyterian church is progressing finely, and the carpenters will have their end of it completed before Saturday evening. The other work, however, will not be done in time to open the church on Sunday of next week and that event will not take place until the next week. The wiring and placing of the lighting fittings will not be done before next week. Doctor Huston, of the First Methodist Episcopal church, has invited Doctor Lee to occupy his pulpit on that day as the latter gentleman will be in the city and the former will be at conference.

THREW A CABBAGE.

Small Boys Annoy the Fourth Street Brush Maker.

August Geithlen, the Fourth street brush maker, has been annoyed by small boys so much that he reported to the police today, and asked protection. He claims the boys throw stones at his shop, and at times these drop into a pot of tar on his table which splashes into his face. One lad threw a rotten cabbage in his door this morning and another broke down the gate. He claims that he has a temper, and he may get so mad that he will hurt them, and he does not want to do that. Two of the lads may be arrested, but it is sure all of them will if they continue the annoyance.

HIT ON THE HEAD.

Will Buxton Cut by a Large Ewer at the Dresden.

In the warehouse of the Dresden pottery this morning Will Buxton was catching ewers thrown from a rack above his head when he became overheated, and paused a moment to wipe the perspiration from his hands. The man above did not notice the action, and threw down one of the large jugs. It struck Buxton on the top of his head, and he went down as though he had been shot. A physician was summoned, and found a deep gash about two inches long in the scalp. The wound was dressed and the injured man taken home.

MR. BRICE OF NEW YORK.

How He Wastes His Money on Extravagant Living.

THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS ARE WASTED.

Dazzling Newport, New York and Washington with vulgar display and barbaric luxury—Ohio does not figure in the social life of the Junior Senator. A life spent in social dissipation.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—The wasteful and prodigal expenditure of an Ohio senator who lives in Newport in the summer, in New York in the fall, in Washington in the winter, and in the Buckeye state not at all, is exciting sharp comment on every side. There are thousands of people who enjoy elegance and the liberal spending of money, but there is a difference between liberality and sheer wastefulness, and this difference the Brices do not understand. In Washington they hire a social secretary at $3,000 a year, whose sole duty it is to arrange for dinners, receptions and other social entertainments. He selects the menu, makes out the list of guests, orders the food, wine and flowers. During the winter season the Brice's bill for game and fish at a single dealer in Washington was more than $1,000 a month, and in their frenzied effort to outshine all others in the way of elaborate entertaining, they think nothing of paying famous opera singers and musicians $2,000 a night for performing for the diversion of their guests. "What strikes me as wonderful," said a gentleman recently, who is frequently a guest at the Brice villa at Newport, "is how a man in public life can be a senator from one state when he spends his time and money in high living in places far distant from it."

"The Brices have been working for years to get into the exclusive set. It was in the winter of 1883 that Mr. Brice, having attained a large fortune in his railroad maneuvers, decided to go to New York and reap the social benefits of it. To this end he bought the fine old mansion at No. 693 Fifth avenue, which has always remained his New York residence. Six years the Brices lived at their new home and quietly added to their list of friends all who might be of any advantage to them in their coming social life, feeling their way, as it were, toward the inner ranks of the exclusive set. Small dinner parties and the dainty teas of Mrs. Brice were the only social affairs which marked these, the first years of their eastern life. Their summers were spent abroad."

Six years ago Mr. Brice saw that to gain his end he must have Newport. As Newport would not come to him he went to Newport, and since 1889 his family have been, with the exception of last season, constant summer residents there. During the years 1889-1892 Senator Brice occupied the palatial Bennett villa opposite the Casino and in 1893 the Fearing estate. Their life during this period was a quiet, rather prosaic existence, always aiming to a future star.

Capturing Washington.

While the senator permitted his family to steal quietly into the New York elite set, as it were, his entry into the Washington diplomatic circles was far different. Secure in his position of United States senator, with one entitlement, even before he had secured a residence, he made doubly secure his position as a Washington society leader and was the most talked of man in town. Sending out cards to the entire social select of Washington early in the season of 1890 for a "small entertainment," Mr. and Mrs. Brice gave in the parlors of the Arlington hotel the grandest and most costly musicale that Washington had ever attended. The program included Emma Eames, Scalchi and Edward Lloyd, the famous English tenor, who was at the time under contract with the Cincinnati Musical association, and it is said that a large sum was paid for the permission to sing away from Cincinnati.

All society was captivated with the entertainment, and the Brices' position as social leaders was secure. Later in the season Mr. Brice was fortunate in leasing the Corcoran estate and mansion, which, facing on Lafayette square, is said to be the most valuable estate in Washington. This residence is almost as exclusive as Lady Alva's marble palace at Newport. The grounds on Sixteenth street are surrounded by a 12-foot solid brick and stone wall, and the main entrance to the house is reached by a carriage way under a covered arched passage, and is entirely hid from the street.

Climbing the Victory.

In the season of 1893 the Brices lavishly entertained the Duke Veragua, and later in the year Grand Duke Alexander of Russia, who has since married the sister of the present czar.

Two winters ago "all Washington" was again invited to the Corcoran mansion to a grand cotillon. It was one of the few affairs of the present administration that was honored with the presence of the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The Leiters, Fullers, and in fact the whole political circle of Washington was in attendance.

Last winter Senator and Mrs. Brice determined to eclipse all previous efforts, and sent out 400 invitations to a musicale. The horsecars on F street passing the house were stopped for nearly an hour by the hundreds of carriages that lined Lafayette square. Madame Melba and both of the De Reszkes had been engaged at a cost of thousands of dollars, in the height of the grand opera season in New York and sang for two hours at the New, the greatest of the Brices' social achievements.

His $15,000 Villa.

In their Newport life, until this season, they entertained but little. Three years ago they had Mrs. John M. Mackay as guest, and gave several lavish entertainments in her honor. Last spring Senator Brice tried to buy the Bennett estate, but refused to pay $120,000 for the property, which, in this age of exclusiveness, is too near the shops of Bellevue avenue. He finally took the J. J. Astor villa, Beaulieu, which had been rented heretofore for several seasons to Alden B. Stockwell, president of the Pacific Steamboat company, at $8,000 per season. Mr. Brice pays $15,000 for four months' occupancy, probably the largest amount ever paid for a summer villa by any one in the whole world.

This has been the first year that Mrs. Brice has really entered Newport's society. For several years her daughters have been in Paris at the convent of Sacre Coeur, and are now a great aid to their mother in receiving at her larger affairs. Mrs. Brice has been the most lavish of the season's entertainers. Dinners and luncheon parties at Beaulieu have been popular, especially with the younger members of the swaggar set. When Secretary Herbert was here Mrs. Brice gave a large dinner party in his honor. Those present included the diplomatic circles and members of the embassies.

To crown their entire to the "180," Mrs. Brice gave a lawn fete two weeks ago which was so novel in its makeup that it took the whole cottage colony by storm. On the vast lawn of Beaulieu a regular midway pleasure reigned, with fortune tellers, mind readers, sleight-of-hand performers and a dog and monkey show, all brought down from New York.

Senator Brice's social aspirations, like his political aspirations, have no limit. He would see the day when the name of Brice would mean as much to New York swells as the name of Astor or Belmont or Vanderbilt.—New York Press.

THE WOOL INDUSTRY.

Protective Duties Benefit Woolgrowers. Free Wool Is Ruin.

The wool tariff act of March 2, 1867, gave adequate protection to our chief wool product under conditions then existing. Under it the prices of wool were fairly remunerative. Sheep increased from 28,477,651 in 1870, producing 100,102,387 pounds of wool, to 50,656,626 in 1884, producing 308,000,000 pounds. In four years, from January, 1880, to January, 1884, sheep increased in number 24 per cent. Then unfortunately came the tariff act of March 3, 1883, reducing wool duties. Under it sheep declined in number 50,626,626 in 1884, with a wool clip of 308,000,000 pounds, to only 43,431,136 in 1891, producing 285,000,000 pounds. In view of the injury resulting from the reduction, the tariff act of Oct. 1, 1890, known as the McKinley law, increased the duties on wool, and American flocks grew in numbers to 47,273,553 in 1893, producing 348,538,183 pounds of wool. Then again in the midst of prosperity came disaster. With the result of the election of 1892 came the certainty of free wool, subsequently enacted in the Wilson-Gorman tariff act of Aug. 28, 1894. The result is shown in the reduction of sheep, in wool product, and in values, as follows:

Year.	Sheep in Wool P'd.	Value of Wool.
January, 1880.	47,273,553	$48,538,183
January, 1884.	50,656,626	$50,656,626
January, 1891.	43,431,136	$43,431,136
January, 1893.	47,273,553	$47,273,553

This is the fruit of free wool. The details show that its ruin has marked every portion of the country. Pennsylvania, between Jan. 1, 1893, and Jan. 1, 1895, lost 458,421 sheep, or 28 per cent. of her flock; Ohio lost 801,305 sheep, or 18 per cent. of her flock; West Virginia lost 205,899, or 24 per cent. of her flock; New England lost 256,000; the middle states, 879,000; Michigan, 556,598, or 22 per cent. of her flock. To this should be added the loss between Jan. 1, 1895, and shearing time, and since. Free wool has wrought a destruction on flocks never yet equalled in this country by war, pestilence or famine, by blasting simoon or withering mildew, by drouth, sandstorms, frost, blizzards, coyotes and wolves.

If This Be Treason, Etc.

All men of common sense are disgusted with the fool twaddle of mugwumps and cuckoos that Grover Cleveland is the greatest, wisest, purest statesman that ever did or ever can exist—the one infallible and immaculate mortal of the world. One doesn't have to dislike Mr. Cleveland to know that these particular admirers of his are merely the belly crawlers and sycophants of power whom Cleveland himself in his inmost heart must utterly despise. There were great men before Agamemnon; there are men in this republic today just as capable of filling the office of president as Grover Cleveland. It is not necessary to make him president for life, with power to name his successor, in order to save the country. All that is needed is to send out the foolkiller armed with a willow wand to smash the soft heads of a few mugwump editors.—Memphis Commercial (Dem.)

MR. CLAY'S SHORTAGE.

Ironton's County Treasurer Can't Understand It.

$14,000 TO $18,000 MISSING.

His Accounts Were All Right a Year Ago and He Declares There Couldn't Be Such a Huge Discrepancy—His Reconciliation Refused.

IRONTON, O., Sept. 10.—County Treasurer Clay, who, it is alleged, is from $16,000 to $18,000 short in his accounts, cannot explain the apparent shortage. When the treasury was examined last year it was reported all right, and the treasurer says that if it was all right then it must be now, as his balances and receipts will show. The county treasurer is also city and school treasurer, and last year when examination was made the August school abstract had been received by him, but was not charged to him by the examiners. The present committee says that this should have been done. On the accounting for this hinges much of the shortage.

When the shortage was made known Treasurer Clay summoned his bondsmen to his home, and after a consultation with them made an assignment of all his property for their benefit. Grant Ward was made assignee at the request of the bondsmen.

When the commissioners met Treasurer Clay appeared before them, and while saying that he had put up all the funds in his possession and had kept back and hidden nothing, tendered his resignation, which, however, was not accepted. The treasurer asserts that there is an error in the figuring of the examining committee, who, however, have yet made no formal report, and demands that two expert accountants be appointed to go over the books.

The B. & O. Likely to Buy.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 10.—The Valley road will be sold here today at public auction under an order issued by United States Judge Ricks. It is generally understood among the officials of the United States court and railroad men that there will be but one bidder, the B. & O. railway company. The addition of the Valley property to its lines will give the B. & O. what it has desired for years, a through line to Cleveland. It is almost certain that B. & O. will absorb the property without contest for the minimum price fixed by the court.

Ordered More New Boats.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 10.—The Cleveland Steel Canal boat company has decided to order at once four more fleets, each composed of one steamer and five barges, to apply between this port and New York, by the way of Lake Erie, Lake Erie, canal and Hudson river. The barges will cost about $3,000 each and the steamers $7,000. Manager C. E. Wheeler reported the complete success of the first trip of the first fleet and recommended a few changes, which will be made.

The Order of Chosen Friends.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 10.—The tenth triennial convention of the supreme council of the Order of Chosen Friends is in session here. Mayor McKim delivered an address of welcome, to which Supreme Councilor Morris responded. The treasurer's report showed a steady increase in the financial resources of the organization, while there had been a marked decrease in the expense in handling the funds.

Robber Crowe Surrendered.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 10.—Patrick Crowe has been surrendered by the authorities upon a requisition from the Governor of Missouri. He was identified as the prisoner who escaped from the jail at St. Joseph, Mo., where he had been placed for train robbery.

The National Polish Alliance.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 10.—The National Polish Alliance has appointed temporary officers as follows: President, W. Czechowicz, of Allen; Sec. Gen., M. Balicki, of South Bend, Ind.; secretary A. N. Sadowski, of Buffalo. There are 335 delegates present.

Eloped With a Preacher.

PORTSMOUTH, O., Sept. 10.—John Swords, a prominent citizen and farmer of Carey's town, has notified the police that his wife Eldora has eloped with Rev. David L. Webb, an itinerant preacher, who for several months has made his home at the Swords residence.

A New Oil Field.

PORTSMOUTH, O., Sept. 10.—A local syndicate consisting of H. K. and H. Brown and W. M. Clayton has secured the oil and gas leases on a tract of 10,000 acres of land in Scioto and Pike counties, and will commence drilling soon.

Mrs. S. Pruzzey, of Marion, requested the mayor to send her to jail, with her ten weeks old baby, on a charge of striking a colored man.

Delegates are arriving in Cleveland to attend the meeting of the supreme court of the Independent Order of Ancient Foresters of America.

Private Green, of Company G, Fourth regiment, Ohio National Guards, was fined five dollars and costs and sent to the Marion city prison on a charge of insubordination, and dishonorably discharged.

City Clerk James Adams, of Portsmouth, has reported issuing building permits for August for structures aggregating $35,000 in value. The value fixed in such permits averages about 50 percent. Seventy-five percent was for dwellings.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

There are streets in the city that would be visibly improved by a visit from the sweeper.

Harry Brookes is working at Smith's Ferry at present while the operator at that place takes his vacation.

The Catholic picnic at the East End today is largely attended, and hundreds of people are spending a delightful time.

A family row in Huston addition made misery for one woman last night and afforded amusement for a crowd of neighbors.

Several East Liverpool people bought tickets for the Louisville encampment last evening. Motorman Stodgill, Mrs. Trueman McClean and Orlando Ralston left on the 7 o'clock train.

The opening of the second week of the public schools finds matters in much better order than at any time during last year, and the teachers generally seem preparing for an exceptionally good year.

Farmers say that corn is earing nicely, and will soon be ready to cut. Pastures are short, but green and pretty, and potatoes are making a very respectable showing. There are not many in a hill but what are there are large and of good quality.

While a carload of sewer pipe was being hauled in the Nancy Hanks car over the electric line for Superintendent Andrews' new house yesterday the car left the rails at the first curve on Mulberry street and passengers were transferred for about an hour.

Thomas Pittenger, one of the best known motormen of the electric line, is confined to his home in East End by a dangerous attack of lung trouble. He has been ill for some time, but was thought to be well on the road to recovery when he was again seized with a serious attack.

Rev. H. E. Hall, the young minister who has so many friends in East End, is visiting in that part of the city at present, and on Wednesday goes to Canton to conference. From there he will go to Boston to continue his studies. He has been teaching in Muskingum county during the summer.

People who claim to know a thing or two about local politics point to the spring election next year as a hot one in which a host of candidates will hustle at the Republican primaries for office. The place of Chief Gill, the mayoralty and the city solicitorship are positions that will be the big bones of contention.

It was rumored here last night that a local company made up of operative potters and backed by Steubenville capital would lease or buy the Toronto white ware pottery, and put it in operation without delay. As the story could not be traced to any reliable source, it is given for what it is worth. The plant is a good one, but has been idle for several years.

Mr. Conkey, physical director of the Young Men's Christian association, went to Cleveland and Oberlin on business this morning. At Oberlin he will instruct a new director who will have charge of the athletic department of the association there. During the absence of Mr. Conkey the physical department will be in charge of Secretary Morris, but little will be done.

There are entirely too many young girls on the streets of the city at night and scenes are at times enacted that would bring a blush to the face of the soldier in the Diamond. Last night two girls, probably under the influence of liquor, hung about the neck of a young man on Broadway in a disgusting manner. A hickory stick applied three times a day for a time might be a good cure for such dangerous actions.

Among the visitors in the city today was W. H. Surles, a prominent insurance man of Milwaukee. The gentleman is a Knight Templar and is on his way home from Boston, where he attended the convocation. Mr. Surles, although a prosperous business man now, served his time in a newspaper office, having learned the trade in Steubenville. He was the guest of his brother, Mr. Surles, of Robinson street, while here.

It is announced at Toronto that the Phoenix Telephone company will begin work there as soon as the material arrives, and connections will be made in surrounding towns and through the country at once. It is supposed that Liverpool is included in this arrangement for the story has been published that the Phoenix would come to this city, but it is learned that the men sent here met with little encouragement, and an exchange would not be a paying institution.

One of the tramps who have been in this vicinity for several days appeared at a house in the West End last evening, and with a face as earnest as though he meant what he said, asked for a night's lodging. His clothes were dirty and ragged, and he was a specimen that no woman would have in her house if she could avoid it. When he was refused lodging he turned away with a sad expression, and remarked with all the injured innocence he could muster, "Madam, this is a cold, cold world," and walked away.

They Are Here.

Not all of them, of course, but enough to make you wonder if it will be possible for us to sell one-half of them. We know what we can do, and long before manufacturers had been notified that they would have to pay an advance on cloth, we had completed our arrangements for our fall delivery, and they are coming in—box after box of the newest ideas for Fall and Winter wear in Ladies', Misses' and Children's Cloaks.

Our Cloak Business

Has grown, until we feel that we would be lacking in good business judgment if in any way we should neglect to arrange for the largest cloak business our house has ever enjoyed. Times are bracing up and in every way we feel more confident than we did one year ago.

The Prices.

We have always said that we can save you money on Cloaks, but this year we make the assertion at the start off that by a peculiar arrangement of circumstances, we are in a position to sell you garments on a positive guarantee of a saving of money to you. This is no bluster, but a cold, hard fact that we will prove to you if you go to the trouble to investigate.

Assortment Of Styles

You can buy Cloaks of almost all dealers in Dry Goods, and the majority of them are sure that they have just what you want, but if you stop a moment to consider that only about one house in each city gives the cloak business enough of time or space that it should have to guarantee its success, you will not wonder that we claim to lead the cloak business in styles and prices. Our entire second floor is used for this line. Lady sales people who are adepts in this line are in charge. We handle more Cloaks than any other store in the county. Our factories are the best known and have the reputation of turning out the finest styles in the country, and selling in large quantities we are able to make closer prices. Come and see our line.

IT IS A GOOD THING.

East End Wants the Hill Road Improved.

EDITOR NEWS REVIEW.—We of the East End are prone to think that people down in the city do not accord us the rights we should have, and that is one reason why we want the hill road improved. But do not understand me as meaning that we want the road improved simply because we look upon that as a right for we don't. We want it improved for any one of a hundred reasons, and if the people will only investigate the scheme they will find that we are right. The principal reason is the electric road. Al Johnson owns the river front, and it is patronize his cars or stay out of town. We can't walk down the railroad because we might get knocked off by a freight train or the pony, nor can we come down the street car track because that is trespassing, and anyhow the old thing is dusty when it isn't muddy. What we want is a hill road by which we can come to town and buy what merchandise we want to buy. It will pay Liverpool to give us that road.

EAST ENDER.

UGHT TO BE GOOD.

Pottery Should Have Its Share of the Revival.

The general opinion is frequently expressed about the potteries that the crockery trade during the fall will be all that it ought to be, and some potteries have more orders than they can fill in a day. The manner in which business is picking up makes the salesmen glad, and they know a thing or two about trade for they are in touch with the dealers all the time. Crops are good between this city and the Rocky mountains, and as a great deal of Liverpool crockery goes into that section, a well informed traveler remarked that Liverpool should get its share of the business.

COUNTERFEIT COIN.

A Street Car Motorman Is the Last Victim.

The smart men who have been passing counterfeit coin in this city at various times during the year occasionally find a victim, but it is not often they catch a motorman. But one of them was neatly caught yesterday evening, and the man who did the trick escaped undetected. He gave the motorman a coin, receiving good money in exchange, and then dropped a nickel in the box, waiting a few minutes before leaving the car. The motorman passed among the passengers in search of the individual, but he was too late, he had escaped.

To Rebuild the Pottery.

The Keystone pottery, which was destroyed by fire at Rochester several months ago, will be rebuilt and made larger than before the fire. It was thought that the company was done for because of the character of the insurance it carried, but that is changed now, for the insurance money was paid, and the company propose to start on a more extensive scale.

DROPPED DEAD.

John Hollinger's Sudden Demise Near Clarkson This Morning.

John Hollinger, an aged farmer well known throughout St. Clair township, dropped dead while going through the yard to bring in the cows on his farm near Clarkson this morning.

He was apparently in good health when in this city on Friday last, and has complained only slightly of feeling ill. This morning he was seized with heart trouble, with the result as stated.

Deceased was aged 63 years and leaves three children in this city—M. S. Hollinger, Sixth street; Mrs. J. H. Crawford, Calcutta road, and Mrs. Roy Thomas, of East Spring street. The time of the funeral has not yet been set.

A Bad Lot.

The prisoners who are sentenced to the Canton workhouse are usually a bad lot, and Superintendent Pontius has his time well employed in looking after them. He has personally purchased the Youngstown bloodhounds, and will keep them at the institution for the benefit of prisoners who run away. Liverpool has one or two in confinement at present, but they seem to be behaving themselves very well, no evil reports of them coming from Canton.

Not Dead By Any Means.

It is learned that the project to organize a commandery of Knight Templars in this city is not dead by any means, but the prime movers are as active as ever. The movement has advanced to that point where it is placed in the hands of a high state official, and in due time something important is anticipated. Probably no town in Ohio has as many members of the order without a commandery as has Liverpool.

Did You Ever

Try Electric Bitters as a remedy for your troubles? If not, get a bottle now and get relief. This medicine has been found to be peculiarly adapted to the relief and cure of all female complaints, exerting a wonderful direct influence in giving strength and tone to the organs. If you have loss of appetite, constipation, headache, fainting spells, or are nervous, sleepless, excitable, melancholy, or troubled with dizzy spells, Electric Bitters is the medicine you need. Health and strength are guaranteed by its use. Large bottles only 50c at T. L. Potts's drug store.

A Good Performance.

A "Money Order" drew a large crowd to the Grand last evening, and the company presented a creditable performance. Some parts of the play are dull and uninteresting, but as a whole it is above the average in its class of productions and should make a good season. If the new management of the Grand gives the public no worse performances than that of last evening the house will flourish and prosper.

While in Chicago, Mr. Charles L. Kahler, a prominent shoe merchant of Des Moines, Iowa, had quite a serious time of it. He took such a severe cold that he could hardly talk or navigate, but the prompt use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy cured him of his cold so quickly that others at the hotel who had had colds followed his example and half a dozen persons ordered it from the nearest drug store. They were profuse in their thanks to Mr. Kahler for telling them how to cure a bad cold so quickly. For sale by Alvin H. Bulger, Sixth and West Market street, druggists.

Seeking Transportation.

A colored woman who did not favor the mayor with her name was at city hall this morning with a tale of woe and a request for transportation to New Brighton. The tale of woe was easily disposed of, but the mayor having no money for public purposes turned her over to the trustees.

Irving W. Lartmore, physical director of Young Men's Christian association, Des Moines, Iowa, says he can conscientiously recommend Chamberlain's Pain Balm to athletes, gymnasts, bicyclists, foot ball players and the profession in general for bruises, sprains and dislocation; also for soreness and stiffness of the muscles. When applied before the parts become swollen it will effect a cure in one-half the time usually required. For sale by Alvin H. Bulger, Sixth and West Market streets, druggists.

Dropped Into Error.

The Bulletin, the official organ of the League of American Wheelmen, fooled some of the riders in this city yesterday by announcing that the Cleveland and Pittsburg carried bicycles as baggage for nothing. It is all a mistake, the company charges as it always did.

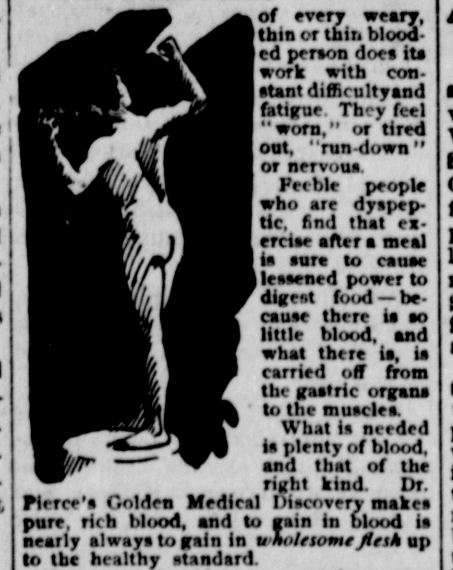

Gone to Louisville.

Captain Christian, accompanied by four men from the snag boat, went to Louisville this morning. The captain will see the glories of the encampment, and the men have work there. Two of them may not return.

An Unusual Condition.

Squire Morley was resting easily in his office this morning without a case to try, and the docket as clean as a new sheet of paper. Not one suit has been listed for future days.

THE MUSCULAR SYSTEM.

Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes pure, rich blood, and to gain in blood is nearly always to gain in wholesome flesh up to the healthy standard.

Every one should have a certain surplus of flesh to meet the emergencies of sickness; to resist the attack of consumption, grip, malaria and fevers. Thin blooded people are always getting sick, and none of the organs of the body can get along without the food they require for work, which is pure blood. To gain and to keep strength and flesh is the secret of health, usefulness and happiness. With new blood and refreshed nerves a confident feeling of returning health comes also. Nervous manifestations, such as sleeplessness, nervous debility and nervous prostration are in nine cases out of ten "the cry of the starved nerves for food." If you feed the nerves on pure rich blood the nervous symptoms will cease. It is bad practice to put the nerves to sleep with so-called celery mixtures, coca compounds or malt extracts; what is needed is a blood maker. The "Discovery" is composed of vegetable ingredients which have an especial effect upon the stomach, liver, and blood making glands. For the cure of dyspepsia, indigestion, liver complaint, weakened vitality, and for puny, pale people, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cannot be equaled. Thousands have testified to its merits.

THE ELECTRIC LOCOMOTIVE.

A Party Leaves For Peru to Try It on a Railroad.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 10.—A representative from the Baldwin locomotive works, an expert electrician from the Westinghouse company, together with Sir Henry Tyler, ex-president of the Grand Trunk railway, departed today for Peru, where, it is said, a test of the possibility and feasibility of the electric locomotive is to be made upon a railroad 15,000 feet above the sea level. Sir Henry Tyler has been in this city for several days in conference with members of the Baldwin firm.

The name of the company proposing to make the test could not be ascertained. It is said that should the report of the representatives of the Baldwin-Westinghouse experts be favorable, it will probably lead to the placing of the first large order for the new locomotive. The Baldwin company is to be represented by Arthur Church of this city and J. Blunt of Pittsburg will look after the interest of the Westinghouse company.

NO HOPE FOR MINERS.

The Imprisoned Unfortunates in Michigan Given Up as Lost.

CALUMET, Mich., Sept. 10.—Ten miners have gone down the southernmost shaft of the Osceola mine. They reached the twentieth fourth level and made their way to within 250 feet of the burning shaft when they were forced to return on account of the deadly gas. Another party went down No. 1 shaft to a depth of 250 feet, but was also compelled to run back.

The entire mine is full of smoke and gas, and all hope of finding any of the entombed miners alive is given up. It is thought the fire is out, but it will be several days before the mine will be clear of smoke.

Chinese Apply for Admission.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—The 200 Chinese recently landed at Vancouver, B. C., as now anticipated have made application to the collector of customs at Ogdensburg, N. Y., for entry at that port. It is stated that these Chinese are actors, etc., en route to the Atlanta exposition, and, while there is no good reason known for their rejection, the government has taken the precaution to instruct the collector at Ogdensburg to make a very thorough examination into the matter before permitting them to enter.

New Canadian Canal Opened.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Sept. 10.—Traffic through the new Canadian ship canal has commenced the first boat to lock through, being Uganda bound down. The locks worked perfectly, no hitch being noticeable, and a steady line of boats have been passing through. Besides the blowing of whistles of harbor tugs and boats in the vicinity no public ceremonies were observed.

No Trust to Raise Prices.

DENVER, Sept. 10.—J. C. Eliel, the newly elected president of the National Wholesale Druggists association, officially denies the reports telegraphed from Denver to the effect that the Druggists association and the National Proprietary association were contemplating the formation of a trust to raise prices.
